

THE KENTUCKY TRIBUNE.

JNO. F. ZIMMERMAN & SON, Publishers.

VOL. X--NO. 15.

THE KENTUCKY TRIBUNE
is published every Friday morning, by
JNO. F. ZIMMERMAN & SON,
Editors and Proprietors.

OFFICE—Third Street, north of Main.

TERMS.

Per annum, in advance, $2 00
Within six months, $2 50
At the end of the year, $3 00

TO CLUBS.

Three copies for $2 00, only $2 00 each.
Five " " 8 00, " 1 60
Ten " " 15 00, " 1 50
Fifteen " " 20 00, " 1 33
Twenty " " 25 00, " 1 25

25 We will give one copy of the Tribune, and one copy of either Graham's, Godley's, or Sartain's Magazine, one year, for $1.

25 No paper discontinued until all appearance are paid, except at the option of the publishers.

ADVERTISING.

For each square of 12 lines or less, first insertion, $1 00
Each additional insertion, 25
A general discount made to Yearly advertisers, 1 50
Part and Procession Notices, each, 1 50
Advertisements of a personal character charged double.

Announcing a candidate for any office, $1 00
Continuing same until the election, 1 00
Announcing Fees to be paid in advance.

JOB WORK

Of every description executed with neatness and dispatch, and on reasonable terms.

SELECT POETRY.

The Great are Falling from Us.

By T. BUCHANAN READ.

The great are falling from us—to the dust
Our flag drops midway, full of many sighs;
A nation's glory and a people's trust
Lie in the ample pall where Webster lies.

The great are falling from us—one by one
As fall the patriarchs of the forest trees;
The winds shall seek them vainly, and the sun
Gaze on each vacant space for centuries.

Lo, Carolina mourns her steadfast wife,
Whom, like a minstrel, tower'd o'er her realm;
And Asiland bears no more the tele divine
From out the branches of her stately elm.

And Marshfield's giant oak, whose stormy boughs
Have staved the ocean tempest from the West,
Lie on the shore he guarded long—and now
Our stately Eagle knows not where to rest.

SONG OF THE DECAYED.

There was an old decanter,
And its mouth was gaping wide; the
ropy wine he'd sipped away
had left its crystal sides;
and the wind was humming—
humming,
up and down the sides; and through the
read-like hollow neck
the wildest notes it blew; I placed it in a window, and the last was hanging free, and fancied that its pale mouth sang the queerest strains to me: "They tell me—proud conqueror! the Dagon has slain him, and War his hundred thousand of the very best of men; but, 'twas thine bottle spoke, but I have conquered more than all your famous conquerors; so fearless and famed of yore. Thee once, ye youths and maidens, canst make out my cup, the last that dares the spirit up that puts to shame the conquerors that lay their scores below; for this hand-crafted million with the lute of
we. Tho' in the path of battle carries waves of blood may roll; yet, while I killed the body, I have damn'd the very soul.
The cholera, the plague, nor sword, such ruin never wrought; but I, a minor
man, on the innocent bare breast. And still, I bore them open them, and they shrunk for my breath; and year by year my thousands tread this

DISMAL ROAD OF DEATH.

NOVEMBER.

By TOM HOOD.

No sun—no moon!
No morn—no noon—
No dusk—no twilight—
No sky—no earthly view—
No distance looking side—
No road—no street—
No shelter side of the way—
No end—no how—
No direction where the Crescents go—
No tree—no stripe—
No repetitions of family people—
No courtesies for showing 'em—
No knowing 'em—
No travelling at all—no locomotion—
No inkling of the way—no motion—
"No go" by land or sea—
No mail—no post—
No news from any foreign coast—
No Park—no Ring—no afternoon gentry—
No warmth, no cheerfulness, no healthful ease—
No comfortable feel in any member—
No shade, no shine, no butterfliet, no lees—
No fruits, no flow'res, no leaves, no birds,
No summer—

A fellow coming out of a tavern one frosty morning, rather top heavy, fell on the door step. Trying to regain his footing he remarked, "it is true that 'tis the wicked stand on slippery places; I must belong to a different class, for it's more than I can do."

"I shall soon die, Cuffy; I must set out on a long journey."

"Berry well," replied Cuffy, "I guess you'll have good goin', because it's all down hill."

A man not a thousand miles from Lowell once asked another who he liked best to hear preach.

"Why," said he, "I like to hear Mr. — preach best; because I don't like any preaching, and his comes the nearest to nothing of any that I ever heard."

THE TRIBUNE.

FRIDAY, NOV. 26, 1852.

MISCELLANEOUS.

UNCLE JOHN'S VISIT.
A STORY FOR THE TIMES.

BY MARTHA RUSSELL.

CONCLUDED.

CHAPTER II.

"Black Simon" was looked after, and talked to for a few moments, much as if he had been a child; and then, instead of returning to the warm sitting room of the hotel, or the elegant parlor of Mr. Jimp's, the old man suddenly ploughed his way along the snow streets, until he reached the suburbs of the city.

He then slackened his steps, and paused occasionally to despatch, by the dim light of the lamps, the numbers of some of the dilapidated buildings which lined the streets. At last he approached one, from which issued the sound of music and dancing, and knocked loudly at the door. It was opened by a rosy-cheeked Irish girl, in a gay ball costume and diry white slippers.

"Mother says she has never been well; but she ran about and played with Willie and me, until we came here. Ever since, she has been poorly, and we have had to hold her all the while."

Some times she laughs when I show her my rosebush, and puts up her hands to catch the leaves. Biddy Flaherty gave it to me, sir, but lately she does not seem to notice anything, and mother thinks she will die."

"Mother says she has never been well; but she ran about and played with Willie and me, until we came here. Ever since, she has been poorly, and we have had to hold her all the while."

Uncle John followed the girl up the gloomy, dirty stairs, asking by the way what was the cause of the festivity below.

"A waddin', sir, Mikey Flaherty is married to Tish Doolan's Bridger to-night," retorted the girl, with a smile, adding, as she pointed to a door at the extreme end of the passage, "it's there ye will find them, sir."

Before the old man could reply, the mother entered, followed by a man bearing wood and coals.

"We do not know whose pleasure was the greatest, the hungry-eyed children, as they are their food by the glowing fire, or old John Markham, as he sat by and looked on. We think the children, for he could not be but saddened by the tale which he heard from the lips of the mother, as she hung over her child. It was the old story, which has blotted so many of the fair pages of life. Poverty has followed sickness; thrown out of work strangers in a strange place, disappointed and despairing, the husband and father had yielded to temptation, and tasted the accursed cup, until he no longer cared for aught save the gratification of his brutal appetite. For some time past they had depended solely upon the earnings of the mother and little Ellen for support; and these had of late been much curtailed by the illness of little Jessie.

"My kindness! repay me! you here!" exclaimed the wretched Mr. Jimp's, turning to Uncle John, and rapidly unwinding the folds of his scarf, as if pressed for breath.

"Yes, Dimmie; I was certain that you did not quite understand the errand of that little girl yesterday, so I follow'd her home and settled your bill myself. It was well I did, for the poor things needed it very much."

"Save a bit of bread for the children, and a spoonful of milk for—," said the poor mother, glancing sadly at the white-robbed little figure on the bed, "for her, sir, we had not tasted any food for two days."

Mr. Jimp's was neither an unjust nor a hard-hearted man; he had simply been guided by the current custom of the day; and when he had subscribed his quota to any benevolent object, allowed himself to consider his responsibility at an end.

Now a new light broke in upon him; he turned to his old relative and said earnestly:

"Thank you, thank you, Uncle John; you could not have done me a kinder deed; or," he added, in a lower tone, "taught me a better lesson. It is one which I shall never forget."

And, to do Mr. Jimp's justice, he never did. He told the story to Julia, when they got home, and bravely took his share of the blame, while the tears gathered in her pretty eyes, and she almost forgot her present and the donation party in her interest in the lasses.

They assisted the father in finding employment, aided and encouraged him in his struggles to overcome his evil habits, and even did not grumble when Uncle John took little Ellen to live with him and aunt Sally, and be a daughter to them in their old age, though they knew that the inheritance of their darling Augustus Adelmar would be much curtailed by the deed.

The woman waited to be urged no more; she eagerly clutched the money, and burst into tears, as she cried—

"The blessing of those ready to perish is upon you both, sir. I should not have sent out to day, but we have neither food nor fuel, and little Jessie is dying!"

"Have you no one whom you can send out after food and fuel?" asked the old man with a glance towards the farther corner of the room, where, from beneath a pile of rags, came the heavy breathing of a man.

"Yes," returned the woman, as with a troubled expression her eye followed him: "but William's poor fellow, is not well. He is worn out," she went on with a sigh, "with care, and want, and trouble. If you will be kind enough to stay with Ellen, sir, I will run down myself, and get what we want. It's only two doors from here," she added, seeing the old man about to remonstrate.

There was something in her manner that recalled to the old man Mr. Jimp's remark about her husband's inexperience. She fears to trust him with the money, and perhaps she is right, thought he, as he drew the scanty covering over the dying child, and began to look about for something to kindle a fire with against the mother's return.

The little girl laid down the coarse shirt sleeve she was stitching, and came to his aid; but they could find nothing but a few bits of paper.

"That is Willie's kite, sir," whispered she, as the old man laid his hand on that article. "He brought it with him when we moved from the country; but I don't know as he will mind it much if we do take it, for he can only be warm."

As she spoke, a curly head peered out from beneath the rags in the corner, and presently, a little boy of five or six years old crept to her side.

"Willie, don't wake father!" she whispered, hushing his exclamation of surprise at the sight of the stranger. We are going to have a fire, and something to eat, Willie," she added. "Mother has gone after the things. Mr. Jimp's sent the money by this gentleman, and now it's all right."

The little boy's sleepy eyes flew wide open at the mention of food and fire, and he whispered with a shy look at Uncle John—

"But will he take us away from this hateful place, sister, and give us dinners every day, just as we used to have them in the country? When I was so hungry, and cried, last night, you said may be some one would bring me a whole pocket full of cakes if I would go to sleep. Has he brought them, sis?"

"Mother has gone after them," said the little girl, while Uncle John took his little boy in his arms, who was sobbing in that peculiar, spasmodic manner that indicates the utter exhaustion of the physical frame, sat William Ives, with his eyes fixed upon the bed, which had been arranged as decently as possible to receive the dead body of little Jessie. The mother had done all her scanty means allowed. She had parted the soft hair on the little brow, straightened the shrunken limbs and robed them in a pretty white frock, the lace of her hair on the other knee, and asked—

"How long has the little one been so sick, dear?"

"Mother says she has never been well; but she ran about and played with Willie and me, until we came here. Ever since, she has been poorly, and we have had to hold her all the while."

Some times she laughs when I show her my rosebush, and puts up her hands to catch the leaves. Biddy Flaherty gave it to me, sir, but lately she does not seem to notice anything, and mother thinks she will die."

"Mother says she has never been well; but she ran about and played with Willie and me, until we came here. Ever since, she has been poorly, and we have had to hold her all the while."

Uncle John followed the girl up the gloomy, dirty stairs, asking by the way what was the cause of the festivity below.

"A waddin', sir, Mikey Flaherty is married to Tish Doolan's Bridger to-night," retorted the girl, with a smile, adding, as she pointed to a door at the extreme end of the passage, "it's there ye will find them, sir."

Before the old man could reply, the mother entered, followed by a man bearing wood and coals.

"We do not know whose pleasure was the greatest, the hungry-eyed children, as they are their food by the glowing fire, or old John Markham, as he sat by and looked on. We think the children, for he could not be but saddened by the tale which he heard from the lips of the mother, as she hung over her child. It was the old story, which has blotted so many of the fair pages of life. Poverty has followed sickness; thrown out of work strangers in a strange place, disappointed and despairing, the husband and father had yielded to temptation, and tasted the accursed cup, until he no longer cared for aught save the gratification of his brutal appetite. For some time past they had depended solely upon the earnings of the mother and little Ellen for support; and these had of late been much curtailed by the illness of little Jessie.

"My kindness! repay me! you here!" exclaimed the wretched Mr. Jimp's, turning to Uncle John, and rapidly unwinding the folds of his scarf, as if pressed for breath.

"Yes, Dimmie; I was certain that you did not quite understand the errand of that little girl yesterday, so I follow'd her home and settled your bill myself. It was well I did, for the poor things needed it very much."

"Save a bit of bread for the children, and a spoonful of milk for—," said the poor mother, glancing sadly at the white-robbed little figure on the bed, "for her, sir, we had not tasted any food for two days."

Mr. Jimp's was neither an unjust nor a hard-hearted man; he had simply been guided by the current custom of the day; and when he had subscribed his quota to any benevolent object, allowed himself to consider his responsibility at an end.

Now a new light broke in upon him; he turned to his old relative and said earnestly:

"Thank you, thank you, Uncle John; you could not have done me a kinder deed; or," he added, in a lower tone, "taught me a better lesson. It is one which I shall never forget."

And, to do Mr. Jimp's justice, he never did. He told the story to Julia, when they got home, and bravely took his share of the blame, while the tears gathered in her pretty eyes, and she almost forgot her present and the donation party in her interest in the lasses.

They assisted the father in finding employment, aided and encouraged him in his struggles to overcome his evil habits, and even did not grumble when Uncle John took little Ellen to live with him and aunt Sally, and be a daughter to them in their old age, though they knew that the inheritance of their darling Augustus Adelmar would be much curtailed by the deed.

The woman waited to be urged no more; she eagerly clutched the money, and burst into tears, as she cried—

"The blessing of those ready to perish is upon you both, sir. I should not have sent out to day, but we have neither food nor fuel, and little Jessie is dying!"

"Have you no one whom you can send out after food and fuel?" asked the old man with a glance towards the farther corner of the room, where, from beneath a pile of rags, came the heavy breathing of a man.

"Yes," returned the woman, as with a troubled expression her eye followed him: "but William's poor fellow, is not well. He is worn out," she went on with a sigh, "with care, and want, and trouble. If you will be kind enough to stay with Ellen, sir, I will run down myself, and get what we want. It's only two doors from here," she added, seeing the old man about to remonstrate.

There was something in her manner that recalled to the old man Mr. Jimp's remark about her husband's inexperience. She fears to trust him with the money, and perhaps she is right, thought he, as he drew the scanty covering over the dying child, and began to look about for something to kindle a fire with against the mother's return.

The little girl laid down the coarse shirt sleeve she was stitching, and came to his aid; but they could find nothing but a few bits of paper.

"That is Willie's kite, sir," whispered she, as the old man laid his hand on that article. "He brought it with him when we moved from the country; but I don't know as he will mind it much if we do take it, for he can only be warm."

As she spoke, a curly head peered out from beneath the rags in the corner, and presently, a little boy of five or six years old crept to her side.

"Willie, don't wake father!" she whispered, hushing his exclamation of sur-

Two Dollars per Annum, in Advance.

WHOLE NO. 485.

UP TO DATE.

WEDDINGS, BALS, FROLICS, &c.

THE TRIBUNE.

Daniel Webster's Private Life. The following letter the N. Y. Commercial copies from the proofs of the "Private Life of Daniel Webster," now in the press of Harper & Brothers, from the pen of Charles Lummis, Esq. It is exceedingly interesting, and the conclusion is touching. It was addressed to his friend overseer:

WASHINGTON, March 17, 1852.

JOHN TAYLOR.—Go ahead. The heart of the winter is broken, and before the 1st day of April all your land may be plowed. Buy the oxen from Capt. Marston, if you think the price fair. Pay for the day. I send you a check for $100 for such expenses. Pay the great expenses you can't do but to return one and fatigued. You have a good horse team, and I think in addition to this, for expenses of four or five years of such work, if you think so, then dispose of the steers, or, invoke them as a bond me to the payment for brief. I know now when I shall see you, but I do not know when. If you need any money, then a present, for instance, write to Joseph Back, Esq., Boston, and he will send it you.

Whatever ground you sow or plant, see to it being well cultivated. We want no poorly-tilled crops.—A little farm well-tilled is as in the next best thing to a little well-tilled well-tended. Cultivate your garden. Beside, to produce sufficient quantities of useful vegetables. A man may half-support his family from a good garden. Take care to keep my master's garden in good order, even if it cost you the wages of a man to take care of it. I have sent you many garden seeds. Preserve them among your belongings. Send them to the stores in the village, that everybody may have a part of them without cost. I am glad that you have chosen Mr. Pike representative. He is a true man; but there are in New Hampshire many persons who will themselves whigs, who are not—whigs, and not better than disunionists—say in what hesitates in granting and securing to every part of the country its just and its constitutional rights, is an enemy to the whole country.

John Taylor of one of your bays should say that he honors father and mother, all loves brothers and sisters, but still insists that one of them shall be driven out of the family, what can you say of him but this, that there is no real family love about him? You and I are turning wiser never talk politics; our talk is of oxen; but remember this—that any man who attempts to excite one part of the country against another, is just as wicked as he would be who should attempt to get up a quarrel between John Taylor and his neighbor, old John Shattuck, or his other neighbor, Captain Barlow. There are some animals that live true in life; and there are some men who delight in heat, smoke, combustion and other evasions. They do not follow the things that make for peace. They enjoy only controversy, contention and strife. We have no communion with such persons, either as neighbors or politicians. You have no more right to say that slavery ought not to exist in Virginia than a Virginian has to say that slavery ought to exist in New Hampshire. This is a question left to every man to decide for himself; if an if we mean to keep the States together, we must leave to every State the power of deciding for itself.

I think I never wrote you a word before on the subject of politics. I shall not do again. I only say love your country, and your whole country; and when upon attempt to persuade you to get into a quarrel with the laws of other States, and then that you mean to mind your own business, and advise them to mind theirs. John Taylor, you are a free man; you possess good principles; you have a large family to rear and provide for by your labor. Be thankful to the government which does not oppress you, which does not bear you down by excessive taxation, but which holds out to you and to yours the hope of all the blessings which liberty, industry and economy may give. John Taylor, thank God in evening and evening that you were born in such a country. John Taylor, never write me another word on politics, give my kindest remembrances to your wife and children; and when you look from your eastern windows upon the graves of my family, remember that he who is the author of this letter, must soon follow them to another world.

DANIEL WEBSTER.

Washing, NAME EASY.—"The crazy forks" in the Asylum at Hartford, Conn., mix a gill of alcohol with a gallon of soft soap, just as they are going to rub it on the clothes, which they then soak two or three hours, and then merely rinse out in clear water, and all the dirt is out as easily as good sense is out of a fellow after drinking the same quantity of the poisonous stuff. Just tell the women that this is the easiest way to make washing easy, and urge them to try it, and you will thereafter have no reason to run away on a washing day. In washing stains and passages, always use a sponge instead of a cloth when washing the spots between the carpet and the wall, and you will not soil the edges. Sponge is cheap and this information is cheap, but it is invaluable to all housekeepers.—Plot.

We have been informed that in one precinct in this (Lyndon Boyd's) congressional district, the polls were opened on Monday the 1st, instead of Tuesday, the 2d—the impression having, in some way, got out that Monday was the election day. Most of the votes of the precinct were given before the discovery of the error was made. The polls were opened again next day, but the people were deterred from voting by the fear of being prosecuted for voting twice. In another precinct they are said to have kept the polls open three days, after the old custom. But we don't believe these stories.—Palmer (Ky.) Jour.

Different sounds will travel with different velocity—a call to dinner will run over a ten-acre lot in a moment and a half, while a summons to return to the stock you wrote will be miserable and unfriendly, new postage law requires the Depart-

Further from Mexico—Progress of the Revolutionists—Santa Anna requested to return to Power, &c.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10.

Private letters from the city of Mexico are said to represent revolutionary movements spreading rapidly, and that in Guadalajara they presented a most formidable aspect.

A Congress had been summoned, to be composed of two, or three from each State, whose duty it would be to elect a President ad interim, and also bring about a reform in the constitution.

General Santa Anna had been called upon, but by whom is not said, to resume the reins of Government, as the man best suited to the emergency. General Urrea had also been invited to head the movement to bring about his return; but his arrest had been ordered by the Government.

The Legislature of the State of Guadalajara, had met to adopt measures to the best interests to be pursued.

Nothing new had transpired concerning the Trinitarian Treaty. Ramirez was preparing a document on the subject for publication.

The revolutionary movements in all parts of the country continue, and it is reported that the Government troops were about to join the insurgents, which was unlikely, as all confidence seems lost, and no change, it is thought, can be for the worse.

The Administration and the Cuban difficulty.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.

The Republic has a long defense of the administration relative to the Crescent City difficulty. In it, the course of Mr. Law is denounced of filibustering device to fan the flame of public execration, and if possible involve the two countries in the horrors of war, and the repeated sending of Smith to Havana as a dредable attempt to bully the Captain General into a surrender of his position.

The Adminstration will maintain to the fullest extent, the right of American vessels to trade with Havana, and will guard unflinchingly the rights of American citizens visiting Cuba who do not compromise themselves by an infraction of the local laws. Further than this, it will not enter into a war to gratify the caprice of an individual or company to serve the purpose of desperate adventurers or to punish Spain for an act in which she is sustained by the common law of nations.

The article concludes by asserting that, while the administration is prepared to uphold the rights of commerce and protection and vindicate all proper privileges of our citizens, it is neither prepared or disposed to call in question the prerogative claimed by Cuba with regard to the exclusion of Parcer Smith.

The administration stands where it stood fifteen months ago; uninfluenced by change at home, unswayed by threats from abroad. It will adhere to principles of honor and honesty and will carry them out at sea or on land without reference to consequences.

The Republic, however, states the refusal of the Captain General to allow the mails and passengers to be landed was an act of audacity and indigence, look at an old man. You would take a peep at sun-shine, look in the face of a young mother.

—The editor that tried to please all his subscribers has retired from the editorial chair in despair. He talks of going on a tour to Mt. Vesuvius. He thinks he will be more likely to succeed in quenching the eternal fires that rage within her bosom, than in suiting the tastes and whims of a thousand different persons.

—Hon. Linn Boyd, it is thought by some will be offered a seat in General Pierce's Cabinet.

—Mr. Black shot Mr. Goffin in Texas, because the latter would not lend the former his wagon.

—About $100,000, in bets, changed hands in Pittsburgh, on the result of the Presidential election.

—Advices received from Virginia, give the most gloomy accounts of the coming crop of tobacco.

—The Frankfort Yeoman is out in favor of James Guthrie, Esq., for an appointment in the Cabinet of Mr. Pierce.

—There is a bright spot in North Carolina called "The Forks," which gave an entire vote of 125 to Scott and Graham.

—There were 8,960 bars of iron landed at Chicago, on the 26th ult., mostly for the Illinois Central Railroad.

—There were sixty deaths from yellow fever, and nine from cholera in New Orleans, for the week ending November 8th.

—The editor of a paper at Winsor, Canada West, says he had greeted no less than twenty-six fugitives from slavery within ten days.

—A revival of religion is progressing at Russellville, in the Methodist Church. A large number of conversions have taken place.

—On the Railroad near Wheeling, one of the contractors performed thefeat of laying twenty-two miles of rail in twenty-one days. Brisk work, that.

—Col. Neal McCann of Fayette sold and delivered this week a lot of hogs in exchange for a number, average weight of which was 45 pounds! Can any man in the State beat this?

—A western editor puts upon the door of his sanctum—"Visitors are requested to go to the devil when they wish to obtain an interview with the editor."

—The Cynthiana News says that Mr. David Dills, an enterprising farmer of Harrison county, sent a lot of 34 bags to Cincinnati last week, which average 416 pounds!

—Dr. Beman, of Troy remarked in a sermon lately, if Franklin tamed the lightning, Professor Morse taught it the English language.

—The Texas papers speak of a project very generally, discussed in that region, for a division of that State and the formation of two States.

—BEGINNING EARLY.—The Lagrange Missourian nominates MILLARD FILLMORE for President in 1856, and EDWARD BATES for Vice President.

—John A. Mandell, a well known auctioneer in St. Louis was killed in St. Louis last week, by falling, while intoxicated, against the sharp corner of a stove.

—A Blacksmith in St. Louis was bitten in the hand by a mad dog and in order to avoid the terrors of hydrophobia, don't take you to pieces till your imminent skeleton is an anatomical curiosity, set me down for a fool! W. M. STOUT.

—A Blacksmith in St. Louis was bitten in the hand by a mad dog and in order to avoid the terrors of hydrophobia, don't take you to pieces till your imminent skeleton is an anatomical curiosity, set me down for a fool! W. M. STOUT.

—Ladies, Look at This!

—LADIES' IND. RUBBER HOUSE AND GARDEN GLOVES. They preserve the hands soft and white, in all kinds of rough and dirty work, and are an infallible and speedy cure for chapped hands. Only a few pairs for sale.

—A Blacksmith in St. Louis was bitten in the hand by a mad dog and in order to avoid the terrors of hydrophobia, don't take you to pieces till your imminent skeleton is an anatomical curiosity, set me down for a fool! W. M. STOUT.

—Different sounds will travel with different velocity—a call to dinner will run over a ten-acre lot in a moment and a half, while a summons to return to the stock you wrote will be miserable and unfriendly, new postage law requires the Department to place in the hands of the post-masters for sale, will be ready in January.

—There is a sign above a German coffee house in Covington, near the ferry landing, which reads, "Oysters and Peeps Feets and Tribe." Je-ru-salem! What eatin'.

—The Indian who recently killed a white woman, in Minnesota territory, was on trial at St. Paul when the March 1st. It was generally believed he would be executed.

—Illinois has at the present time in operation, 229 miles of railroad, and in four years at least, 1,600 miles in operation.

—The Cincinnati Nonpareil says that there is a man in that city so passionately fond of music that he mistakes his wife for a bass, drum, mighty, and beats her like the mischief.

—Gov. Powell has offered a reward of $250 for the apprehension of Charles Gains, who killed George Smedley, in Fayette county, on the 9th of October, and fled from justice.

—A court-martial has assembled at Washington to investigate the circumstances of the disgraceful fight in the streets of that city, between Col. Roberts and Capt. McLane, for which the latter was arrested at the time.

—PAY YOUR POSTAGE.—The New Hampshire Oasis commands the following lines to one of its correspondents, "who had forgotten good manners in writing upon his own business, and saddled us with a postage of five cents to save himself three."

—The man that now-a-days will write to me and say his letter, "I am sorry that he has not written to me,"

—What don't you say, any better.

—And take down "all creation,"

—You couldn't find a meaner man in this 'ere mighty nation.

—The editor that tried to please all his subscribers has retired from the editorial chair in despair. He talks of going on a tour to Mt. Vesuvius. He thinks he will be more likely to succeed in quenching the eternal fires that rage within her bosom, than in suiting the tastes and whims of a thousand different persons.

—The editor of a paper at Winsor, Canada West, says he had greeted no less than twenty-six fugitives from slavery within ten days.

—A revival of religion is progressing at Russellville, in the Methodist Church. A large number of conversions have taken place.

—On the Railroad near Wheeling, one of the contractors performed thefeat of laying twenty-two miles of rail in twenty-one days. Brisk work, that.

—Col. Neal McCann of Fayette sold and delivered this week a lot of hogs in exchange for a number, average weight of which was 45 pounds! Can any man in the State beat this?

—A western editor puts upon the door of his sanctum—"Visitors are requested to go to the devil when they wish to obtain an interview with the editor."

—The Cynthiana News says that Mr. David Dills, an enterprising farmer of Harrison county, sent a lot of 34 bags to Cincinnati last week, which average 416 pounds!

—Dr. Beman, of Troy remarked in a sermon lately, if Franklin tamed the lightning, Professor Morse taught it the English language.

—The Texas papers speak of a project very generally, discussed in that region, for a division of that State and the formation of two States.

—BEGINNING EARLY.—The Lagrange Missourian nominates MILLARD FILLMORE for President in 1856, and EDWARD BATES for Vice President.

—John A. Mandell, a well known auctioneer in St. Louis was killed in St. Louis last week, by falling, while intoxicated, against the sharp corner of a stove.

—A Blacksmith in St. Louis was bitten in the hand by a mad dog and in order to avoid the terrors of hydrophobia, don't take you to pieces till your imminent skeleton is an anatomical curiosity, set me down for a fool! W. M. STOUT.

—Ladies, Look at This!

—LADIES' IND. RUBBER HOUSE AND GARDEN GLOVES. They preserve the hands soft and white, in all kinds of rough and dirty work, and are an infallible and speedy cure for chapped hands. Only a few pairs for sale.

—A Blacksmith in St. Louis was bitten in the hand by a mad dog and in order to avoid the terrors of hydrophobia, don't take you to pieces till your imminent skeleton is an anatomical curiosity, set me down for a fool! W. M. STOUT.

—Different sounds will travel with different velocity—a call to dinner will run over a ten-acre lot in a moment and a half, while a summons to return to the stock you wrote will be miserable and unfriendly, new postage law requires the Department to place in the hands of the post-masters for sale, will be ready in January.

—There is a sign above a German coffee house in Covington, near the ferry landing, which reads, "Oysters and Peeps Feets and Tribe." Je-ru-salem! What eatin'.

—The Indian who recently killed a white woman, in Minnesota territory, was on trial at St. Paul when the March 1st. It was generally believed he would be executed.

—Illinois has at the present time in operation, 229 miles of railroad, and in four years at least, 1,600 miles in operation.

—The Cincinnati Nonpareil says that there is a man in that city so passionately fond of music that he mistakes his wife for a bass, drum, mighty, and beats her like the mischief.

—Gov. Powell has offered a reward of $250 for the apprehension of Charles Gains, who killed George Smedley, in Fayette county, on the 9th of October, and fled from justice.

—A court-martial has assembled at Washington to investigate the circumstances of the disgraceful fight in the streets of that city, between Col. Roberts and Capt. McLane, for which the latter was arrested at the time.

—PAY YOUR POSTAGE.—The New Hampshire Oasis commands the following lines to one of its correspondents, "who had forgotten good manners in writing upon his own business, and saddled us with a postage of five cents to save himself three."

—The man that now-a-days will write to me and say his letter, "I am sorry that he has not written to me,"

—What don't you say, any better.

—And take down "all creation,"

—You couldn't find a meaner man in this 'ere mighty nation.

—The editor that tried to please all his subscribers has retired from the editorial chair in despair. He talks of going on a tour to Mt. Vesuvius. He thinks he will be more likely to succeed in quenching the eternal fires that rage within her bosom, than in suiting the tastes and whims of a thousand different persons.

—A court-martial has assembled at Washington to investigate the circumstances of the disgraceful fight in the streets of that city, between Col. Roberts and Capt. McLane, for which the latter was arrested at the time.

—PAY YOUR POSTAGE.—The New Hampshire Oasis commands the following lines to one of its correspondents, "who had forgotten good manners in writing upon his own business, and saddled us with a postage of five cents to save himself three."

—The man that now-a-days will write to me and say his letter, "I am sorry that he has not written to me,"

—What don't you say, any better.

—And take down "all creation,"

—You couldn't find a meaner man in this 'ere mighty nation.

THE TRIBUNE.

IN UNION THERE IS STRENGTH.

DANVILLE, KY.,
Friday Morning, Nov. 26, 1852.

THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE LEXINGTON AND DANVILLE RAILROAD.—We are requested by the Treasurer of this road to state that there are a number of subscribers of stock who are delinquent in payment of the calls due. The money is needed by the company to meet its engagements with the contractors, who are now at work on the road with a large force. The monthly estimates will amount to from $10,000 to $50,000, and this the Board have to meet. The Stockholders must pay, in order to carry on the work. We therefore give notice to all to forward at the Railroad Office, and make payment of the calls due on their stock.

In order to give the hands in our office a taste of holiday yesterday, we are compelled to omit several communications, advertisements, &c.

Our friend, Mr. Wm. Heffner, formerly of this place, but now of California, has our thanks for a package of San Francisco papers.

Mr. H. B. Ruoton, a graduate of this office, will accept our thanks for several packages of St. Louis papers.

Agreeably to the proclamation of Gov. Powell, yesterday was appropriately observed by our citizens as a day of Thanksgiving. Secular business was generally suspended, and religious services held in several of the churches.

Remember MARCH's great sale of Carpeting and House Furnishing Goods at Lexington, on Monday next.

We call the attention of the reader to the advertisements of our friend HAYT. He has a beautiful and large stock of Jewelry, Fancy articles, Toys, &c., which promises to sell cheaper than such articles were ever sold in this market. Give him a call.

HUGE PUMPKINS.—Mrs. SAM'l. Wilson, of this county, has our thanks for a couple of Mammoth Pumpkins, the largest one weighing 754 pounds. They were emphatically "some pumpkins" of the best quality, and came just in time to afford us pumpkin pies for Thanksgiving day.

Tobacco is a "nasty weed," and the chewing of it is a nasty practice, but people will use it, and neither the experience of others nor the advice of physicians will make them quit it. This is a deplorable fact, and shows the weakness of human nature, but as it is just so, those addicted to the use of the weed, should always chew a good article, which they can procure by calling at Mr. Jones H. CALDWELL's. That he has a superior quality we can amply testify, as we are now busily engaged in demolishing a couple of twists of it.

SENTENCED.—Watson Nuckles, a young man of Washington county, charged with stealing a horse from G. W. Doneghey, Esq., Sheriff of this county, a short time since, was tried at the present Chancery and Criminal term of the Boyle Circuit Court, convicted, and sentenced to the penitentiary for four years.

Jim McGinnis, a free man of color, was convicted of stealing a small sum of money from an old negro woman in the county, and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years.

LEAKING OUT.—The Buffalo, Republic, a prominent Locofofo organ, in a laborious editorial urges that Gen. Pierce owes it to the Democratic party of the State of New York, to place Martin Van Buren at the head of the State Department. What will Gen. Pierce's Southern supporters say to this suggestion?

DEVELOPMENTS ABOUT CUBA.—The National Intelligencer publishes six columns of correspondence between James Buchanan, when Secretary of State under President Polk, and R. M. Sanders, Minister to Spain, authorizing him on the part of President Polk, to offer $100,000,000 to the Government of Spain for the purchase of Cuba. The proposition was promptly though courteously, but absolutely declined.

TO BE HUNG.—Wm. Howard, charged with the murder of Henry Driehaus, in Louisville, in November last, having obtained a change of venue to Oldham county, was tried at LaGrange last week, and convicted. He was sentenced to be hung on Friday, the 14th of January 1853.

This trial has created considerable excitement in Louisville. Howard acknowledges that he killed Driehaus, but protests that he committed the deed without malice.

OUR RAILROAD—Duty of Stockholders.

The friends of the Lexington and Danville Railroad will be gratified to learn that the contractors are actively at work on the grade. There are now, as we are informed, over 100 hands at work on the line. This number will be increased to from 150 to 200 before the 1st of March, and by that time a very much larger force will be put upon the work. The contractors are said to be energetic and industrious men, and will push the work through to an early completion.

But money is necessary to meet the monthly expenditures incurred by the employment of so great a force. The company have ample means to construct and complete the road in eighteen months if the stockholders will do their duty, and pay the calls promptly. This they should do all without being urged to it. We trust all will feel the necessity of paying their calls, in order to enable the company to keep its engagement with the contractors. Let every stockholder come up to his part of the work, and the directors will put this road through in the shortest practicable time.

GOOD NEWS—RAILROAD EXTENSION.

It gives us pleasure to announce to the friends of the Lexington and Danville Railroad, that the sum of $500,000 has been subscribed in the counties south of us for the extension of our railroad toward M'Minville, Tenn. This we believe secures the construction of the road through to a connection with the Chattanooga road. There is great confidence felt by the friends of the enterprise that Cincinnati and other points interested will lend efficient aid to the road. We understand that the subject will be presented to the citizens and corporate authorities of Cincinnati in a short time, and that urgent solicitations will be made for aid at other points.

The citizens of the counties south of us have acted with most commendable zeal and public spirit in this great work. No people have ever acted more nobly and generously in a great public work.

It is worthy of mention, and may be made without any one feeling it to be invidious, that Clayton Miller, Esq., of Adair, has richly illustrated the liberality of a public spirited citizen, by subscribing twenty-five thousand dollars of stock to the extension of our road. He is the largest original subscriber and stockholder to railroads in this State, and his example is worthy of all imitation. We trust there may be others found who will do likewise.

PRESTON ELECTED.—Col. Wm. Preston (Whig) has made a most triumphant and astonishing race in the Louisville District to fill the vacancy in Congress caused by Mr. Marshall's resignation. His opponent Mr. Sanders was absolutely "no where." Preston's majority in the city of Louisville is 1,370; in Jefferson county about 100; and in the entire District, 1,724. That's the way for Whigs to vote.

THE MAJORITY.—We publish to-day the full returns of the vote of this State for President at the late election, thus settling the question as to Gen. Scott's majority. 3,347 is quite a handsome majority, under the circumstances. We think Kentucky has done nobly, and we are proud of our native State. Gen. Scott was not the choice of her people in Convention, but when he was selected as the standard bearer of the Whig party, and the election came on, although those States which clamored for his nomination, deserted him and aided in producing our unparalleled defeat, Kentucky stood as true as steel, and nobly cast her vote for Whig men and measures. We are badly beaten, but Kentucky gave no aid nor comfort to the enemy." On the contrary, she now occupies the proud position of the brightest star to illuminate the darkness of Locofofo which covers the land.

LEAKING OUT.—The Buffalo, Republic, a prominent Locofofo organ, in a laborious editorial urges that Gen. Pierce, owes it to the Democratic party of the State of New York, to place Martin Van Buren at the head of the State Department. What will Gen. Pierce's Southern supporters say to this suggestion?

DEVELOPMENTS ABOUT CUBA.—The National Intelligencer publishes six columns of correspondence between James Buchanan, when Secretary of State under President Polk, and R. M. Sanders, Minister to Spain, authorizing him on the part of President Polk, to offer $100,000,000 to the Government of Spain for the purchase of Cuba. The proposition was promptly though courteously, but absolutely declined.

TO BE HUNG.—Wm. Howard, charged with the murder of Henry Driehaus, in Louisville, in November last, having obtained a change of venue to Oldham county, was tried at LaGrange last week, and convicted. He was sentenced to be hung on Friday, the 14th of January 1853.

This trial has created considerable excitement in Louisville. Howard acknowledges that he killed Driehaus, but protests that he committed the deed without malice.

ELECTION NEWS.

We have received the full returns from States as follows:

State	Pierce	Hale	Others
Kentucky	56,711	53,364	206
Mass.	54,024	46,931	28,899
Maryland	29,926	34,968	1,834
Penns'l'a.	179,182	198,533	8,580
N. Jersey	38,551	44,301	344
Ohio	132,526	169,160	31,781
Indiana	80,901	95,299	6,934

ILLINOIS.—Returns from 92 counties show a majority for Pierce over Scott, 13,327.

TEXAS.—nearly half the State heard from. Pierce returns largely a head of Scott, and the Texas papers estimate his majority at 8,000.

LOUISIANA.—Complete returns from this State gives Pierce 1,454 majority.

MISSOURI.—Eighty counties in Missouri give a majority for Pierce of 7,699.

VERMONT.—This State gives Scott a majority over both Pierce and Hale. The vote in 176 towns stands: Scott 16,639; Pierce 9,162; Hale 6,267. Vermont is truly the "Whig star that never sets"—always O. K.

Kentucky Election Returns. (OFFICIAL.)

The following are the full returns of the vote of this State at the late election:

State	Pierce	Hale
Adair	382	551
Allen	280	454
Anderson	292	606
Ballard	260	328
Bracken	638	517
Butler	312	269
Bath	587	755
Breckinridge	842	410
Bullitt	403	416
Boone	800	769
Bourbon	970	528
Boyle	603	323
Breathitt	96	234
Barren	1119	967
Carver	180	497
Clay	278	195
Clinton	276	318
Casey	474	230
Clark	842	322
Caldwell	731	874
Campbell	577	1093
Calloway	189	815
Carroll	338	354
Christian	973	806
Crittenden	396	486
Cumberland	501	157
Daviss	1027	711
Edmonson	208	218
Estill	358	322
Fleming	888	698
Franklin	833	769
Fayette	1376	810
Fulton	152	233
Floyd	165	222
Greenup	657	600
Grant	437	572
Graves	446	971
Green	422	487
Garrard	863	236
Grayson	433	394
Gallatin	372	411
Hancock	249	205
Hopkins	737	809
Hardin	1007	619
Henderson	616	635
Henry	744	983
Hickman	155	379
Hart	455	578
Harrison	802	947
Harlan	327	65
Jefferson	3665	3791
Jessamine	556	476
Johnson	64	299
Kenton	975	1384
Knox	437	164
Lewis	400	803
Lawrence	385	362
Livingston	250	232
Larue	417	343
Lincoln	674	338
Laurel	372	187
Logan	1294	384
Letcher	63	78
Marshall	132	627
McCracken	385	416
Moores	377	350
Madison	976	541
Mason	1337	896
Montgomery	516	369
Meade	647	230
Muhlenburg	814	553
Morgan	316	509
Nicholas	592	721
Nelson	958	487
Ohio	645	579
Owsley	294	326
Owen	865	1186
Oldham	363	486
Pike	921	194
Pendleton	262	570
Perry	130	77
Powell	111	183
Pulaski	707	622
Rockcastle	437	195
Simpson	389	380
Shelby	1184	753
Scot	729	883
Spencer	331	340
Trigg	560	629
Todd	652	422
Trimble	300	491
Taylor	258	524
Union	499	612
Washington	442	407
Woodford	706	410
Warren	932	600
Whitley	358	143
Wayne	463	342
	56,711	53,364
	53,364	266

Scott's majority, 3,347!

If the votes (60 in number,) which were irregularly taken in several counties, be added to the above, they will reduce Scott's majority to 3,267.

A REMARKABLE ENTERPRISE.—The education of Deaf Mutes of the United States are engaged in the laudable enterprise of erecting, by subscriptions confined to themselves, a monument to the memory of their great benefactor, the late Rev.

THOMAS H. GALLAUDET, L. L. D. Mr. Gallaudet first introduced the instruction of Deaf Mutes into this country, and established at Hartford, Connecticut, the first Institution for their instruction. This Institution is the mother of some fourteen or fifteen others now in operation in the United States, in which over one thousand of these unfortunate persons are annually receiving the precious boon of Christian education.

Mr. JOHN BLOUNT, one of the Deaf and Mute Instructors of the Institution in this place, lately transmitted to the Treasurer of the proposed monument to Mr. Gallaudet, the sum of seventy-five dollars, raised among the present and former pupils of a Christian education.

Priests were present yesterday, and for a lot of 500 hogs $5.65 was offered, which the drover refused, the prevailing price being $5.75.

The Madison Banner says that a firm in that city had purchased 9,000 hogs since Thursday, at figures ranging from $5.40 to $5.75 net. The Madison Banner of Monday has the following:

We hear also of a sale, late Saturday night, of 1,000 at $5.75. A noon to-day a sale of 3,000 hogs at $5.75, and 10,000 pieces, on private terms, were reported.

The receipts of hogs at Madison up to

Saturday night were 11,50

NEW STOCK!

WISH to call the attention of the public to a superior stock of BLOWS AND SHOES.

Which I am now offering at my old stand, and which for neatness and durability, cannot be surpassed, if equalled, in this place. Please call before purchasing, as I am confident the subscriber you in both price and quality, will be satisfied.

Cheaper than the Cheapest

For Cash on hand, or to such as are known to pay punctually once or twice a year. This is the only offer will apply for credit, as my price will not be met by any other.

1500 still manufacture BLOWS AND SHOES

in the best manner.

F. P. WHITCHER.

Sept 10, '52 ff.

A HATS-HATS.

AM now in receipt of my Fall Supply of HATS—which for neatness and durability will compare favorably with any in this market.

Please, over 1000 for Cash, & in prompt paying customers.

F. P. WHITCHER.

Sept 10, '52 ff.

NOTICE TO STOCKHOLDERS.

Office Lex. & Dan. Railroad Co.,
DANVILLE, SEPT. 17, 1852.

ORDERED, that a call be made on the Stockholders for 10 per cent. of the subscriptions, to be paid by the 1st of October
next, and for that sum to be paid quarterly until the whole subscription is paid—payable to C. Lewis, Treasurer, at Danville, & P. E. Yer-son, Collector, at Lexington.

3/4 by order of Board, interest will be required on all calls not paid within 10 days after they become due.

JOHN BARKLEY, Pres.

Sept 17, '52 ff.

Lexington Observer and Statesman copy ff.

Lex. and Dan. Railroad Office.

Stockholders are requested to be punctual in paying their calls, as the business of the Company requires its funds to meet engagements with the contractors. Payments will be received at this office. Calls not paid within ten days after the same are due, can be paid to Boyer & Armstrong, who are authorized to receive and collect the same.

C. RODERS, Treasurer.

Sept 18, '52 ff.

Another Butcher!

Beef, Mutton, Sausage Pork &c.

THE subscriber respectfully informs the citizens of Danville, and the surrounding country, that he has commenced BUTCH-ERING in this place, and will regularly have in market every

Wednesday and Saturday Morning,
Beef, Mutton, Pork, Sausage,
Liverwort, Lard, &c.

All of the best, and will sell as cheap as it can possibly be had. He pledges himself to use his best efforts to please all who may patronize
him. All the sales is a fair share of the proceeds of this concern.

LEWIS UNVIRSAW.

Danville, Oct 15, '52 ff.

Beef and Mutton.

Beef, Mutton, Pork, Sausage.

THE subscriber returns his thanks to the citizens of Danville and vicinity for past patronage, and would respectfully inform them that having removed to Danville, he will, in future, be enabled to attend to their wants more promptly and conveniently. He will punctually have in market,

Every Wednesday and Saturday Morning,
Fresh and Fine Beef and Mutton

which he will sell as low as possibly can be had. He pledges himself to use his best efforts to please all who may patronize him.

As he has to pay cash for his stock, he is in the necessity of requiring the money for his meat before it is taken from the market-house. Accounts will only be kept with those with whom it may be inconvenient to pay exactly morning, and who pay $5 or $10 in advance. He hopes none will think hard of him for the course he is forced to pursue.

JOHN STODGHILL

Sept 6, '52 ff.

Town Property for Sale.

Now is the time to purchase.

The Railroad will soon be commenced!

The subscriber wishing to vest his meas-
in another way, offers on low and accommodating terms, the following described

HOUSES AND LOTS,

In the City of Danville.

Lot No. 1.

Situated on the south-east corner of First and Main streets, fronting 50 feet on First street, and 30 on Main, with a stone dwelling on the corner, containing 4 rooms and passage, with a stone kitchen, and a well of excellent and lasting water.

No. 2.

Is a two story brick house, opposite the Danville Branch Bank, covering the entire lot of Ground, with an alley attached of 4 feet, the whole lot running back 240 feet. This is now one of the most extensive establishments in the city for a large Dry Goods or Grocery concern.

No. 3.

Is a two story brick house, opposite the Dan-
ville Branch Bank, covering the entire lot of Ground, with an alley attached of 4 feet, the whole lot running back 240 feet. This is now
one of the most extensive establishments in the city for a large Dry Goods or Grocery concern.

No. 4.

Is a two story brick house, opposite the Dan-
ville Branch Bank, covering the entire lot of Ground, with an alley attached of 4 feet, the whole lot running back 240 feet. This is now
one of the most extensive establishments in the city for a large Dry Goods or Grocery concern.

No. 5.

Is a lot in the suburbs of the city, containing three-quarters of an acre, with a comfortable House for a small family, and a good neighborhood.

Any person wishing to purchase any of the above property will find me at my residence,
about a mile north of the Court-house.

JAS. E. GILLESPIE.

Danville, Sept 23, '52 ff.

Take Notice

R. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their
successor to their confidence and patronage.

W. A. WATTS, having sold his entire
stock of Drugs, Medicines, Books,
Stationery, &c. to Mr. W. M. STOUT,
reserves this to his constituency for most
kindness, and takes pleasure in commanding their successor to their confidence